The vowels 'e' and 'o' are always long, except when followed by a double consonant, e.g., ettha, ottha.

There is no difference between the pronunciation 'n' and 'm'. The former never stands at the end, but is always followed by a consonant of its group.

The dentals 't' and 'd' are pronounced with the tip of the tongue placed against the front upper teeth.

The aspirates 'kh', 'gh', 'th', 'dh', 'th', 'dh', 'ph', 'bh' are pronounced with 'h' sound immediately following, as in blockhead, pighead, fathead, loghead, etc. where the 'h' in each is combined with the preceding consonant in pronunciation.

Introduction
The Need for Daily Buddhist Devotions

With the growing interest in the Buddha Dhamma in recent years there is an increasing need for a manual of Buddhist texts that could be used to introduce newcomers to the basic tenets of Buddhism and the traditional Buddhist practices expressing reverence and devotion to the Blessed One.

This small manual shows how homage to the Triple Gem – the Buddha, Dhamma* and Sangha – can be performed. It is hoped that this manual will be of much general use. It can be used to guide parents in the responsible task of leading their children along the correct spiritual path.

* The word 'Dhamma' can convey many meanings depending on the context it is used. The correct translation is given each time it is used in this book.
Every Buddhist should learn to recite at least a few verses or stanzas from this manual when he or she visits the temple, kneels before the home altar, or when in need of spiritual solace. Many Buddhists feel lost at what to do or recite when they attend a religious function. Although they say they are Buddhists, they often find Buddhist customs and practices strange. They have kept themselves away from Buddhism in preference for the materialistic way of life.

The main cause of delinquency is parental neglect. With this manual in their hands, parents can no longer blame the lack of suitable devotional material to teach their children properly.

On many occasions when a couple visits the temple, the husband or wife enters the shrine alone to pay homage to the Buddha while the other spouse stands outside the shrine as if he or she belongs to another religion. But when asked, it is found that both in fact profess the same religion. This clearly shows that they were not trained properly in their religious practices by their parents when they were young.

Such an attitude should be changed. Parents must learn the value of religious instruction to train their children to live as good Buddhists and to perform their religious duties and obligations. The lack of religious training and understanding account for the reluctance to enter or even embarrassment some people might have upon entering the shrine room.

Some only remember the Buddha and the temple when they are stricken with illness or when they are in trouble; very often as a last resort. Such should not be the attitude of Buddhists. Those who remember the Buddha daily will receive blessings for protection and will gain more self-confidence in their day-to-day activities in leading a peaceful life. Buddhism is not a mere philosophy or psychology for people to talk about. The devotional aspect of Buddhism is important for one to gain spiritual solace.

In Buddhist countries there are many facilities available such as temples, monasteries, Dhamma classes for children, Buddhist schools and numerous Buddhist publications. This manual of Buddhist devotions is offered as a door to the commodious mansion of Buddhism with many chambers of culture, civilization and the arts as well as a vast storehouse of spiritual truth. The door is necessary but doors alone serve no purpose. It is only when we realise and practise the great truths that lie beyond those doors that we can benefit from the Buddha’s Teachings.

To practising Buddhists, this manual provides the daily guide for practice that leads to purification at three levels: Sila, purification of conduct through right speech and action; Samadhi, purification of mind through meditation; and Panna, purification of understanding through insight.

This small manual contains verses in homage to the Triple Gem to develop faith and devotion, as well as strengthen our commitment towards good conduct to develop a pure mind. It also contains Paritta verses which could be recited to ward off evil forces and to overcome them through positive mental action. In addition, the verses in this manual could be recited for meditation and the cultivation of insight of the true nature of existence.

Why Take Refuge in the Buddha

Those who believe in God would pray to him for help and protection when they experience fear, sorrow or disturbances. Many Buddhists ask whom could they turn to when confronted with the thoughts of fear, insecurity and helplessness. Under such circumstances, we can turn our minds to the Buddha and seek solace through him.

When Buddhists visualize the supreme qualities of the Buddha, His great victories serenity and sacredness, and His calm demeanour, their minds will be calmed and their confidence will grow. It is through calming their minds and focussing on this power that they are in a position to understand the nature of the disturbances and find the means to overcome their worldly suffering. Even in many religions, God is not regarded as a person, but a force which is personified in the mind. By praying, their minds undergo the same process and the answer to their problem will become evident, as if by a miracle.

Many of our problems are caused by the mind itself. Therefore, the mind alone is able to solve them through proper understanding. When the mind is properly settled by constantly thinking of the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha, it can help us to overcome our sense of helplessness, fear of evil spirits, and loneliness. As a result, self-confidence is restored. This, in short, is what is meant by taking ‘refuge’ in the Buddha.

The Value of Paritta Suttas
Recent research in medicine, in experimental psychology and what is now called parapsychology has thrown some light on the nature of the mind and its importance in the world. During the last forty years, the conviction has steadily grown amongst medical men that many causes of disease, organic as well as functional, are directly caused by mental states. The body becomes ill because the mind controlling it either secretly wants to make it ill, or because it is in such a state of agitation that it cannot prevent the body from becoming sick. Whatever its physical nature, resistance to disease is unquestionably related to the psychological condition of the patient.

The mind not only makes one sick, it also cures. An optimistic patient has more chances of getting well than a patient who is worried and unhappy. The recorded instances of faith healing include cases in which even organic diseases were cured almost instantaneously.

In this connection, it is interesting to observe the prevalence in Buddhist lands of the practice of listening to the recital of the Dhamma for protection and deliverance from evil as well as promoting welfare and well-being. The selected discourses for recital are known as Paritta Suttas. Paritta in Pali, Paritrana in Sanskrit and Pirit in Sinhala, all mean principally ‘protection’. They are used to describe certain suttas or discourses of the Buddha as affording protection and deliverance from harmful influences. The practice of reciting and listening to the Paritta Suttas began very early in the history of Buddhism. It is certain that their recital produces mental well-being in those who listen to them with intelligence and confidence in the Truth of the Buddha’s words. Such mental well-being can help those who are ill to recover. It can help to induce the mental attitude that brings happiness to overcome negative states of mind.

Originally in India, those who listened to Paritta understood what was recited; and the effect on them was correspondingly greater. The Buddha Himself had Paritta recited for Him and He also requested others to recite for His disciples when they were ill. This practice is still in vogue in Buddhist lands.

The Buddha and the Arahanta (Saints and Consummate Ones) can concentrate on the Paritta Suttas without the aid of someone who does the reciting. However, when they themselves are ill, it would be easier for them to listen to what others recite and thus be able to focus their minds on the Dhamma (truth) of the Sutta. There are occasions, as in the case of illness which weakens the mind, when hetero-suggestion has been found to be more effective than auto-suggestion.

According to the Dhamma, the mind is so closely linked with the body that mental states affect the body's health and well-being. Some doctors even say that there is no such thing as a purely physical disease. Unless these bad mental states are caused by previous evil acts (Akusala Kamma-Vipaka) and so are unalterable, it is possible to change them so that mental health and physical well-being will follow.

The vibratory sounds the Paritta produces are soothing to the nerves; produce peace of mind and bring harmony to the system.

How can a bad influence springing from evil states be counteracted by listening to the recitation of Paritta Suttas? Well, as they are the result of evil thinking, they can therefore be destroyed by the good states of mind – a product of listening intelligently and confidently to Paritta sayings. The power of concentration that is generated through listening attentively and whole-heartedly to the truth of the saying dispels the bad influence arising from evil states.

Paritta Sutta recital is a form of Sacca-Kiriya, of depending on the truth for protection, justification or attainment. The saying: 'The power of truth protects the follower of the truth' (Dhammo Have Rakkahati Dhamma Carim) is the principle behind these sutta recitals. If it is true that virtue protects the virtuous, then a person who listens to these sayings with complete confidence in the truth of the Buddha's words, which spring from complete enlightenment, will acquire so virtuous a state of mind that he will be able to conquer any evil influence.

The recital of Paritta Suttas also results in material blessings through the mental states caused by concentration and confidence in listening intelligently to the recital. According to the Buddha, Right Effort is a necessary factor in overcoming suffering (Viriyena Dukkham Accheti). Listening to one of these recitals in the proper way can also generate energy for the purpose of doing good, and following the path of worldly progress with diligence.

It is understood that listening to these Paritta Suttas must produce in the intelligent and confident listener only wholesome states which can cure and prevent illness. There is no better medicine than truth (Dhamma) for both the mental and physical ills which are the cause of all suffering and misfortune.

Salutation to the Buddha
It is the duty of every Buddhist to pay homage to the Buddha before the commencement of any Buddhist recital. The following sentences in Pali should be recited thrice and only after that does one take refuge in the Triple Gem. This is done as a mark of respect for the great virtues and wisdom of the Buddha in order to gain confidence, devotion and inspiration in the Buddha.

Taking the Three Refuges
To become a Buddhist one must take refuge in the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha for one's guidance. All those who are already Buddhists are encouraged to reiterate the acceptance of this Holy Triple Gem – Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha – in their daily life.

The Buddha was the holiest, most virtuous, wisest and most spiritually perfect personality who had ever lived. His Dhamma (doctrine) is the Ultimate Truth about the Universe which explains the real nature of the world and of life as well. The Sangha refers to all the disciples of the Buddha who have attained sainthood. It also refers to the Holy Order of the Buddha, whose members lead the religious life and who are responsible for preserving His original teachings.

By declaring one's willingness to be guided by the Holy Triple Gem one should not be led to think that one will thereby be mentally enslaved. Everyone must have some guidance for his spiritual development; but one must never give up one's right to think freely, intelligently, and respectfully in response to whatever is taught in the name of religion.

Every religion has certain sacred objects of veneration in which its followers are expected to have confidence. It is the fervent acceptance of these sacred objects which awaken the religious impulse in men and which in turn inspire them to lead a religious life.

The Five Precepts
he following precepts are recited and observed by every Buddhist the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. These precepts are also recited before the commencement of all Buddhist meetings or gatherings. By reciting these before the commencement of any meeting or activity, Buddhists are reminded to observe these principles and to purify their minds while carrying out their responsibilities.

Buddhists do not regard these precepts as commandments but observe them voluntarily. At the same time, they do not believe that there will be divine punishment for those who do not follow the precepts; although those who violate these universal principles have to face the consequences according to the natural laws of cause and effect. Every Buddhist must remember these noble precepts in his daily life and try to live up to them.

If Buddhists adjust their way of life according to these five precepts, they can, on the one hand, live happily and peacefully in this world, and on the other hand, help others to live likewise. To observe the precepts is like putting up a fence to protect one’s house against robbers. A person without virtue not only endangers himself but also others around him.

These precepts indicate the five arterial directions in which a Buddhist has to exercise his self-control. Thus the first rule calls upon him to control the passion of anger, the second the desire for material possessions, the third the lust of the flesh; the fourth, cowardice and malevolence (the causes of untruthfulness) and the fifth, the craving for unwholesome excitement.

The practice of precepts helps one to cultivate five ennobling virtues which correspond to each of the precepts. The first is the cultivation of compassion; the second, generosity and non-attachment; the third, contentment; the fourth, truthfulness; and the fifth, mindfulness and clarity of the mind.

Every Buddhist should observe these five precepts in order to elevate himself morally and spiritually. Morality is the first step in the path towards eternal bliss. It is the basic spiritual foundation. Without this base, there can be no human progress and spiritual advancement.

After establishing the moral foundation, a person can proceed to develop his mind and wisdom. This practice will lead him from the lower levels to the progressively higher levels of mental development, and finally, to the summit of all attainments – Enlightenment.

The Eight Precepts
In many Buddhist countries, devout Buddhists observe the eight precepts on Full Moon and New Moon days by going to the temple early in the morning and spending a period of 24 hours there. The idea is to withdraw from one's busy daily life in this material and sensual world and to cultivate spiritual development, self-training and peace of mind.

It is not compulsory for every Buddhist to observe these precepts all the time. After observing these precepts for 24 hours one is at liberty to return to his normal way of life. One who keeps away from worldly frivolities once in a while trains the mind not to be a slave to sensual pleasures.

Many entertainments only increase the passions of the mind which hinder the progress of spiritual development in man. It is only by restraining oneself from time to time in this way that a person will be able to overcome his uneasiness, and be able to control himself. This practice trains him not to be disappointed when he is denied sensual pleasures. Buddhist monks and nuns who have renounced worldly pleasures observe these precepts all the time. Buddhist lay devotees, on the other hand, observe the eight precepts from time to time. All practising Buddhists, however, make a conscious effort to observe the five precepts every day.

Verses
for Paying Homage to the Triple Gem, Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha
These verses are recited to pay homage to the Triple Gem – Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha. These words explain some of the great qualities and virtues pertaining to the Triple Gem. By reciting these words, one can understand the admirable qualities of the Triple Gem and so develop one’s confidence in their intrinsic worth.

The Buddha Himself explained these qualities in many of His Suttas. He also advised the devotees to recite these words to be mindful of the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha in times of fear or disturbance, whether arising from external sources or through evil influences so that such disturbances can be vanquished. This is because the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha are free from all kinds of defilements and hindrances such as greed, anger and ignorance.

Furthermore, according to the Buddha, there are some people who pray to gods or devas in times of danger for their own protection not realising that these same gods are themselves not free from greed, anger, ignorance and impermanence. It has also to be remembered that even the gods themselves are subject to fear. Therefore, for our protection, it is more advisable to remember the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha.

Atthavisati Buddha Vandana Salutation to the Twenty-Eight Buddhas
The following stanzas are recited in salutation to the 28 Buddhas who have appeared in this world during various periods. The Buddhist scriptures record the names of these Buddhas. Going back into the distant past of the universe which has appeared and disintegrated countless times, the Buddha visualized innumerable periods of earlier Buddhas.

The Buddhas in the past are infinite in number. Of the known 28 Buddhas, only four Buddhas belong to this present world cycle, the fourth being Gotama the Buddha whose teachings we now follow. In time to come and during the course of the present universe itself, one more Buddha will appear. He will be the Maitreya Buddha. The present world system would thus have a total of five Buddhas. This clearly shows that Buddhists do not subscribe to the idea that the world will end in the near future.

Buddhists pay their homage in veneration to all these Buddhas. In essence, all these Buddhas are exactly the same as the Buddha of this world cycle. They have all realized the same Universal Truth (Dhamma) that Sakyamuni Buddha had realized and they have all His qualities.

Bodhi Vandana
Salutation to the Bodhi Tree
The Bodhi Tree, under which the Buddha gained Enlightenment, is an object of veneration to Buddhists. It is commonly known as ‘pipphal’ tree and its botanical name is ‘Ficus religiosa’. Even before the Buddha’s Enlightenment, this tree was long regarded as a holy tree in India.

After His Enlightenment, the Buddha showed His gratitude to this tree by gazing at it fondly and fixedly from a distance for one whole week upon getting up from His seat of Enlightenment. On another occasion, the Buddha advised His followers to plant a Bodhi tree to represent Him during His absence.

Ever since, the Buddhist world has been venerating this sacred tree which represents the Enlightenment of the Master. A firm belief prevails among Buddhists that certain Devas (Gods) protect and influence the vicinity wherever a Bodhi tree is situated and venerated. Those who fail to grasp the symbolism of such veneration criticize the Buddhist community for being tree worshippers.

Offerings of Light, Flowers, Food,
Medicinal Drinks and Perfumed Smoke
The following verses are recited when making offerings of lights, flowers, food, fruit juice and incense, etc. The offering of these things in the name of the Buddha is yet another practice, the meaning of which some people fail to understand. Offering of such things to a holy man is in fact an oriental custom. Even during the Buddha’s time, it was customary among Indian people to carry some flowers whenever they visited a holy man. This is only done as a mark of respect.

Devout Buddhists likewise always offer something in the name of the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha. This symbolic act gives them a sense of happiness, peace and relief. At the same time, understanding Buddhists often use the same offerings as objects of their meditation. They are fully aware that these physical objects are simply representations of things spiritual.

The flame of the candle or oil lamp and the flowers could each be compared to the physical body or life. The offering of light symbolises the dispelling of darkness or ignorance through light. The existence of the flame and its brightness, the beauty of the flowers, the aroma of incense and the final fading away of such brightness and beauty only manifest their impermanence; hence all these natural phenomena could be taken up as suitable objects for meditation. The flowers on the altar represent one of the most beautiful and yet one of the most transient of the forms of nature.

These offerings symbolise meritorious deeds because of the wholesome and devout mental states they induce. Therefore, time spent in a shrine room in offering some of these articles and reciting some verses is not at all wasted. The devotees’ pious acts have the effect of pleasing themselves and calming the mind.

It is good to start our daily work after offering some of these objects to the Buddha as a mark of respect to the holy religious teacher who has shown us the correct Path for our peace, happiness and salvation.

However, Buddhists should not be satisfied by simply offering something in the name of the Buddha and reciting in a parrot-fashion some verses or Suttas thinking that their duty has been done. To become good Buddhists they have to do something more; they have to correct themselves by following the Buddha’s advice. Try to gain more knowledge and understanding through His Teaching. One should not think that by just offering something to the Buddha one’s wrong-doings can be eradicated.

Salutation to the Three Main Objects of Veneration
To make Devas Participate in Merits
Transference of Merits to the Departed
In many a temple throughout the world, a pagoda or 'chetiya' is regarded as a sacred object deserving veneration and homage. This beautiful piece of Buddhist architecture is not meant merely for a decorative purpose but to enshrine the relics, images and other valuable sacred remains of the Buddha and His holy disciples. In different countries, pagodas take on various shapes depending on the national characteristics of their architecture.

These religious symbols for veneration are very important for Buddhists to cultivate devotion towards their religion. Visible religious objects give inspiration to devotees, create a religious atmosphere at that place, and sanctify the place for the performance of religious activities as well as the observance of discipline.

The following verse is recited in paying homage to the three main objects of veneration namely, the pagoda, the great bodhi tree and the image of the Buddha.

Aspiration or Wish
A fervent wish takes the place of prayer in Buddhism. According to the Buddha the strong aspiration of a man is bound to achieve its desired result. Firm determination and a strong will could therefore always fulfill a man's and woman's aspiration. A wish has more the function of contemplation and meditation rather than a petition or supplication. A wish may take the form of some intense desire, such as the aspiration for purity, but the psychological machinery will not operate unless the idea permeates the mind.

It is customary among Buddhists after performing a meritorious deed to have an aspiration for their own benefit and also for the welfare of others. By doing this, they will be able to continue their spiritual well-being and development in the right direction. They can thus prepare the ground for their future rebirth to take effect in a more congenial place.

Those who develop such aspiration or wish will be able to maintain their noble way of life hereafter until they attain their final liberation. Without such an aspiration, Nibbana will not be achieved.

Forgiveness of Short-comings
For many people, seeking forgiveness for their sins is the most important aspect of religion. Since Buddhism denies this kind of confession, some people ask why we recite something to confess. Buddhists recite the following verse not with the purpose of confessing their sins but to recognise and admit to themselves their shortcomings.

By not practising mindfulness constantly in our daily activities, we impede our own spiritual progress. When we allow our mind to dwell on unwholesome thoughts, we may even commit grievous wrong.

Reciting a verse to re-cast our mind with wholesome thoughts will provide both relief and mental strength to stop repeating our failings. By expressing our thoughts this way and by recognising our fallibility, we encourage others to do likewise for their spiritual self-improvement. Having such an attitude helps us to guard our thoughts, speech and actions regardless of whether we are at sacred places or in the presence of holy persons.

Stanzas of Victory

Recital for Blessings and Prosperity on significant occasions
These verses are recited by Buddhist devotees in many Buddhist countries on auspicious occasions such as weddings, housewarming ceremonies, felicitations and various kinds of blessing services. Children could be taught to sing the verses to the accompaniment of musical instruments.

These eight verses recall the great events which took place between the Buddha and His powerful opponents, who have tried to kill Him, to humiliate Him and to defeat Him, and how the Buddha overcame all these disturbances calmly and peacefully through the merits of His great virtues; and finally how He converted His opponents into following the righteous way of living. Each verse is based on a beautiful story but it is not possible to mention them in this manual. One who recites these verses regularly and mindfully following the example given by the Buddha, can overcome many difficulties.

Mangala Sutta
Discourse on Blessings
Recital for Blessings on auspicious occasions
The Buddha uttered the following Sutta to explain the attainment of real blessing. The Sutta itself tells us of the background and the significance of this famous discourse. The Buddha clarified the doubts of the Devās (gods) when they wanted to know what constituted a real blessing. In the Buddhist sense a ‘blessing’ is not something which is given by a divine being, but a state of well-being which arises within oneself when one lives righteously, maintains human dignity, and creates a healthy environment.

It is customary to recite this Sutta on auspicious occasions. This Sutta is not just for recital. Devotees must also understand its meaning and put its principles into practice. It is by practising the advice given in this Sutta that one can receive ‘blessings’. Here, we find the ethical, moral and spiritual teachings of the Master for the guidance of devotees. The discourse tells us that the Buddha’s teachings are not confined to the philosophical and psychological aspects of the religion but extends to the field of social service and the cultivation of self-discipline. Since these verses are supposed to be the original words of the Buddha, Buddhist devotees have high respect for and confidence in them.

On one occasion the Blessed One, was dwelling at the monastery of Anathapindika in Jeta’s Grove near Savatthi.
When the night was far spent,
a certain deity whose surpassing splendour illuminated the entire Jeta Grove, came to the presence of the Blessed One, and drawing near, respectfully saluted and stood at one side.
Standing thus,
he addressed the Blessed One in verse:
1. Bahū devā manussā ca

Ratana Sutta
Discourse on The Jewels

Recital to avert Evil Forces
The Buddha uttered the following powerful and effective Sutta (discourse) on His visit to the epidemic-stricken township of Vesali to bless victims to protect them from famine, sickness, evil spirits and other kinds of misfortune.

During the Buddha’s time, many people were benefited and misfortunes were averted following the recital of the Sutta. This Sutta also explains the highest qualities of the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha by giving details of the Triple Gem in its various facets. At the end of every stanza the Buddha blessed everyone saying: ‘By this truth may all beings be happy and blissful.’

Sakka, the King of Devas requested the other devas (good spirits), who had assembled to hear this discourse, to radiate their loving-kindness towards human beings, and to protect those who remember them and fulfil their religious obligations.

After hearing this Sutta, even Sakka the King of the Gods, became delighted and paid homage to the Triple Gem by uttering the last three verses.

All devotees are strongly urged to recite this Sutta daily, as well as during illness or at other times when they are disturbed. Occasionally, monks should be invited to their homes to chant this and other important Suttas.
Ratana Sutta

1. Yānidha bhūtāni samā-gatāni
   Bhummā-nivā yāniva anta-likkhe
   Sabbeva bhūtā sumanā bhavantu
   Athopi sakkacca sunantu bhāsitam

   Whatever beings are here assembled,
   Those of the earth or those of the air,
   may all of them be happy!
   Let them all listen attentively to my words!

2. Tasmāhi bhūtā nisāmetha sabbe
   Mettam karotha mānusiyā pajāya
   Divāca rattoca haranti ye balim
   Tasmāhi ne rakkhatha appa-mattā

   Listen here, all beings!
   Show your love to those humans who,
   day and night, bring offerings to you.
   Therefore, guard them diligently.

3. Yankinci vittam Idhavā huram vā
   Saggēsu vāyam ratanam panītam
   Nano-samam atthi tathāgatena
   Idampi Buddhē ratanam panītam
   Etena saccena suvatthi hotu
Whatever treasure there be, either here or in the world beyond, or whatever precious jewel there be in the heavens;
yet there is none comparable to the Accomplished One.
In the Buddha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

4. Khayam virāgam amatam panītam
   Yadajjhagā sakya muni samāhito
   Natena dhammena samatthi kinci
   Idampi dhamme ratanam panītam
   Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

The tranquil Sage of the Sakyas realised cessation, freedom from passion, immortality, excellence.
There is nothing comparable to this Dhamma*
In the Dhamma is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

* Here the law (Dhamma) means the Universal Law or Order.
5. Yambuddha settho parivannayi sucim
Samādhi-mānantarikañña-māhu
Samādhinā tena samo na vijjati
Idampi dhamme ratanam panītam
Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

That pure path the Supreme Buddha praised is described as ‘concentration without interruption’.
There is nothing like that concentration.
In the Dhamma is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

6. Ye puggalā attha satam pasatthā
Cattāri etāni yugāni honti
Te dakkhineyyā sugatassa sāvakā
Etesu dinnāni mahapphalāni
Idampi sanghe ratanam panītam
Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

Those Eight Individuals, praised by the virtuous, they constitute four pairs.
They, worthy of offerings, are the disciples of the Enlightened One,
Gifts given to these yield abundant fruit.
In the Sangha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!
7. Ye suppa-yuttā manasā dalhena
Nikkāmino gotama sāsanamhi
Te patti pattā amatam vigayha
Laddhā mudhā nibbutim bhunjamānā
Idampi sanghe ratanam panītam
Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

With steadfast mind, applying themselves thoroughly in the Dispensation of Gotama, free of passion, they have attained to that which should be attained. And plunging into immortality they enjoy the Peace (Nibbana) in absolute freedom. In the Sangha is this precious jewel found. On account of this truth May there be happiness!

8. Yathinda khīlo pathavim sito siyā
Catubbhi vātebhi asampa kampiyō
Tathū-pamam sappurisam vadāmi
Yo ariya saccāni avecca passati
Idampi sanghe ratanam panītam
Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

Just as a firm post sunk in the earth cannot be shaken by the four winds; I say that a good person who thoroughly perceives the Noble Truths is similar to that.
In the Sangha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

9. Ye ariya saccāni vibhāva-yanti
Gambhīra-paññena sudesitāni
Kincāpi te honti bhusappa mattā
Na te bhavam atthamam ādiyanti
Idampi sanghe ratanam panītam
Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

Those who clearly understand the Noble Truths, well taught by Him who has absolute knowledge,
do not undergo an eighth birth*, no matter how exceedingly heedless they may be.
In the Sangha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

*8th birth: that is, such a one will only be reborn seven more times.
Together with his attainment of Insight, three qualities have been abandoned, namely:
Belief in self, doubt and dependence on (wrong) rites and ceremonies.
He is absolutely freed from the four states of misery, and is incapable of committing the six deadly crimes*.
In the Sangha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

* Six deadly crimes:
1. matricide 2. patricide
3. the murder of an Arahant 4. the wounding of a Buddha
5. the creation of a schism in the Sangha
6. maintaining wrong views
11. Kincāpi so kammam karoti pāpakam

   Idampi sanghe ratanam panītam
   Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

   He is incapable of hiding whatever evil he does, whether by deed, word or thought; for it has been said that such an act is impossible for one who has seen the Path. On account of this truth
   May there be happiness!

12. Vanappa gumbe yathā phussitagge
   Gimhāna māse pathamasmin gimhe
   Tathū-pamam dhamma varam adesayi
   Nibbāna gāmin paramam hitāya
   Idampi Buddhe ratanam panītam
   Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

   Just like a forest is flowered at the top, in the first month of the summer season, so has the Sublime Doctrine that leads to Nibbana been taught for the Highest Good.
   In the Buddha is this precious jewel found. On account of this truth
   May there be happiness!
13. Varō varaṁñū varado varāharo
Anuttaro dhamma varam adesayi
Idampi Buddhē ratanam panītam
Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

The unrivalled Excellent One,
the Knower, the Giver,
the Bringer of the Excellent has expounded
the excellent Doctrine.
In the Buddha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!

14. Khīnam purānam

Etena saccena suvatthi hotu

Their past is extinct, a fresh becoming there is not, their minds are not attached to a future birth, their desires grow not;
those wise ones go out even as this lamp.
In the Sangha is this precious jewel found.
On account of this truth
May there be happiness!
15. Yānīdhā bhūtānī samā-gatānī
    Bhummā-nīvā yānīva anta-likkhe

Recitals in Place of Prayer
Morning and Evening Recitals in Place of Prayer

Reciting these devotional verses can calm and develop confidence in the mind. And it takes only a few minutes. You need not always use the words given here. You may add your own to suit your particular need or situation. These verses can also be used for group functions such as after a Dhamma talk or during a Buddha puja.

Before the start of the recital, put aside all distracting thoughts. Lighten your heart and purify your mind. Pause and reflect on the words and let them meet up your mind’s door. If someone you know is facing some difficulties, send him or her your compassionate thoughts. Wish that he or she will overcome the troubles and be happy.

At the start of a day, cheer up your mind to be positive and energetic. Lift your heart with good and loving thoughts for the rest of the day.

In the evening, reflect on your day’s actions.
Rejoice over your good actions but learn from your mistakes by not repeating them.

Impress upon your mind to be stronger, wiser and happier. Invite the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha into your life for guidance and protection. Take the Buddha, the ideal of Love and Compassion, Wisdom and Purity, as your Spiritual Ideal in your thoughts and action. Follow the Dhamma everyday and in every way to fulfil your aspirations. Follow the example of the Noble Sangha who liberated themselves through diligence.

The daily devotions in Pali should be recited with confidence and reverence. For those who prefer to do their devotions in English, the two short verses that follow, one for the morning and one for the evening, can be recited.

Homage and Refuge

Namo Buddhāya,
Namo Dhammāya,
Namo Sanghāya

Homage to the Enlightened Buddha, Perfect in Wisdom and Compassion.
Homage to the Noble Dhamma, the Universal Law the Buddha taught.
Homage to the Holy Sangha,
    the Protectors of the Noble Dhamma.
To this Triple Gem, I go for refuge.

May the Triple Gem bless and protect me and my loved ones.
May we be free from harm and danger.
    May we overcome our difficulties.
May we always meet with success.
    May we be blessed with good health,
    strength, peace and happiness.
May my parents, brothers and sisters, teachers, friends and relatives be well and happy. May they be free from harm and danger. If they are faced with harm and danger, I wish that they overcome their anxieties quickly. If they are faced with ill health, I wish that they regain good health soon. May the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha bless and protect them.

Aspiration

1. May the Buddha guide my thoughts and actions throughout the day.

2. May the Dhamma help me to be strong in moments of weakness, brave in times of trouble, and calm in the face of changing fortunes.

3. May the Sangha inspire me to act with kindness, patience and forgiveness in my dealings with others, including those who are unfriendly to me.

4. May the Devas (Deities) protect me and my family.

5. May the Arahantas (the Saints) and the Bodhisatvas (Buddhas to be) guide me in my daily life.

6. May this country be blessed with peace and prosperity.

7. May I have the opportunity today to help someone in need of my love and support. I shall not waste this life in useless pursuits but use it well to bring benefit and happiness to the world.

8. May the Buddha be at my head, the Dhamma in my heart and the Sangha at my side to protect and guide me always.

9. May all living beings including my enemies find peace.

May we always meet with success.
    May we be blessed with good health,
strength, peace and happiness.
May my parents, brothers and sisters, teachers, friends and relatives be well and happy.
May they be free from harm and danger.
If they are faced with harm and danger, I wish that they overcome their anxieties quickly.
If they are faced with ill health, I wish that they regain good health soon.
May the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha, bless and protect them.

Protect me and my loved ones tonight, O Blessed One.
Keep us away from harm and danger.
Let our sleep be peaceful so that we awake in the morning refreshed in body and mind.
Aspiration

If I have strayed from the true path, may I never do so again.
If I have carelessly hurt someone today,
    by word or deed,
    may I be more mindful the next time.
O Buddha, the Enlightened One, help me to set my heart right.
May my actions reflect
    Your love and compassion.

I shall strive to cleanse my heart from hate and envy,
    and live in harmony with all people.
I shall be close to the Dhamma, in good as well as in difficult times.
I know that should the moment come for me to leave the world,
I shall do so without fear or regret because I leave the world a better person than when I came into it.
Whatever wrong someone may do to me, may I be compassionate and forgive and bear no hatred in my heart.
I shall bear in mind to be grateful for the acts of love and consideration shown to me,
no matter how small they appear to be.
For those I love and those who love me, may this life be a blessing and a source of happiness to all beings.

_Namo Buddhāya._

Sharing of Merits

I would like to share the merits
I have gathered today as well as in the past with the Devas.
May they rejoice in these merits and keep an eye on me and my loved ones.
I would also like to transfer these merits to my departed relatives and friends.
Wherever they are, may they be free from suffering and be happy.
Metta Sutta
Discourse on Loving-kindness (Goodwill) Recital to radiate boundless Loving-kindness to relieve others' suffering
Some 500 monks who went into the jungle to practise meditation were disturbed and frightened by certain spirits. Whereupon they returned and reported the matter to the Buddha. The Buddha then advised the monks to go back to the same place but armed with the sword of Metta (Loving-kindness) for their protection. The Buddha then delivered this Sutta to teach them how to practise this loving-kindness.

The monks returned to the jungle and radiated their loving-kindness to those spirits and thereafter they continued with their meditation without any hindrance. These same spirits who had earlier created disturbances, later repented and paid their respects to the monks.

This is, therefore, an important Sutta for the devotees to recite to radiate their loving-kindness to every living being. By doing so they can overcome any disturbances, find peace and happiness for themselves and help others to live peacefully by practising this great virtue.
Metta Sutta

1. Karaniya mattha kusalena
   Yantam santam padam abhi-samecca
   Sakko ujū ca sūjū ca
   Suvaco cassa mudu anatimāni

   He who is skilled in doing good and who wishes to attain that state of calm (i.e. Nibbana) should act thus.
   He should be able, upright, perfectly upright, obedient, gentle and humble.

2. Santussako ca subharo ca
   Appa-kicco ca sallahuka-vutti
   Santindriyo ca nipako ca
   Appa-gabbho kulesu ananu giddho

   Contented, easily looked after,
   (i.e. not a burden to others)
   with few duties, simple in livelihood.
   Controlled in senses, discreet, not impudent;
   Not greedily attached to families.

3. Naca khuddham samācare kinci
   Yena viññū pare upava-deyyum
   Sukhino vā khemino hontu
   Sabbe sattā bhavantu sukhi-tattā
He should not commit any slight wrong, so that other wise men might find fault in him. May all beings be happy and safe, may their hearts be wholesome.

4. \textit{Ye keci pāna bhū-tatthi} \\
\textit{Tasāvā thāvarā vā anava sesā} \\
\textit{Dīghā vā ye mahantā vā} \\
\textit{Majjhimā-rassa-kānuka thūlā}

Whatsoever living beings there are; feeble or strong, long, stout or medium, short, small or large, seen or unseen.

5. \textit{Ditthā vā yeva additthā} \\
\textit{Ye ca dūre vasanti avidūre} \\
\textit{Bhūtā vā sambhavesī vā} \\
\textit{Sabbe sattā bhavantu sukhi-tattā}

Those dwelling far or near, those who are born and those who are to be born. May all beings, without exception, be happy minded.

6. \textit{Na paro param nikubbetha} \\
\textit{Nāti-maññetha katthaci nam kanci} \\
\textit{Byāro-sanā patigha-saññā} \\
\textit{Nāñña-maññassa dukkha-miccheyya}
Let not one deceive another nor despise any person whatsoever in any place.
In anger or ill-will, let him not wish any harm to another.

7. Mātā yathā niyam puttam
   Āyusā eka-putta-manu rakkhe
   Evampi sabba bhūtesu
   Mānasam-bhāvaye apari-mānam

Just as a mother would protect her only child at the risk of her own life, even so let him cultivate a boundless heart towards all beings.

8. Mettanca sabba lōkasmin
   Mānasam-bhāvaye apari-mānam
   Uddham adhō ca tiriyanca
   Asam-bādhham averam asa-pattam

Let thoughts of boundless love pervade the whole world; above, below and across without any obstruction, without any hatred, without any enmity.

9. Tittham caram nisinno vā
   Sayāno vā yāva tassa vigata middho
   Etam satim adhīttheyya
   Brahma metam vihāram idha-māhu
Whether he stands, walks, sits or lies down, as long as he is awake, he should develop this mindfulness. This, they say is the Highest conduct here.

10. Ditthiñca anupa gamma sīlavā Dassa-nena sampanno Kāmesu vineyya gedham Nahi jātu gabbha seyyam punaretīti

Not falling into error, virtuous and endowed with insight, he discards attachment to sensuous desires. Truly, he does not come again; to be conceived in a womb.

Jaya Paritta
Recital for Invoking Victory
The recital of the Jaya Paritta is to gain protection, security, and victory. The translation given here has been rendered to convey note of the literary rather than the literal meaning of some Pali words.

Homage to the Buddha, the Exalted, the Worthy, the fully Enlightened One, possessed of glory, strength, wisdom, splendour, victory, success, great psychic powers, limitless great virtues, merits abundant, and capable of repelling all kinds of perils.

Verily, may all your illnesses, sorrows, dangers, misery, anguish and restlessness vanish; may all your wishes be fulfilled; may you live long and have longevity blessed with the majesty of the thirty two signs and eighty secondary signs of the Great Teacher, the one hundred and eight auspicious signs, the six coloured rays, the aura of the Buddha, the ten high virtues, the ten higher virtues, the ten crowning virtues, magnificent with morality, concentration and wisdom.

May you also live long with the grace of the Buddha, the fully Enlightened One, the Dhamma, His noble teaching, the Sangha, (His disciples) who live in splendour with psychic powers, energy, right view, eighty four thousand sections of the Dhamma, nine supramundane ideal states, the Eightfold Path, the eight mental stages of meditation, six super knowledges, sympathy, compassion, kindliness, equanimity, all (thirty) principal virtues under the refuge of the Triple Gem.

May guardian deities of the sky, the mountains, the forests, the earth, the lakes, the rivers and the great oceans defend you.

With the grace of the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha, the Triple Gem, eighty four thousand sections of the Dhamma, the Tripitaka, the holy disciples of the Buddha, may all your illnesses, fears, perils, dangers, bad omens and misfortunes be destroyed.

May you always be a cultivator of longevity, riches, glory, fame, strength, appearance and comfort.

The Buddha converts the murderer Angulimala.
Angulimāla Paritta
Recital to Bless Expectant Mothers for Easy Childbirth
In some Buddhist countries, it is believed that when the Angulimāla paritta is used to bless the drinking water of an expectant mother, the woman would have an easy childbirth.

Ven. Angulimāla, on one of his usual daily rounds for alms, came upon a house where he heard the sharp cries of an expectant mother undergoing protracted labour. Feeling rather inadequate and helpless, he reported the incident to the Buddha. The Buddha then instructed Ven. Angulimāla to return to the same house to give a recital whereupon the woman delivered her baby without further difficulties. Ever since, this recital has come to be known as the Angulimāla paritta.

Buddhānussati
Meditation on the Buddha

Recital for Self-composure suitable for meditation at any time
Meditation on the Buddha inspires confidence and inner calm. The Buddha is a crowning glory of the ten perfections (Dasa Pārami) which He had cultivated life after life until His final enlightenment. The paramis include Dāna (Liberality), Śīla (Moral Conduct), Nekkhamma (Selflessness), Paññā (Wisdom), Viriya (Right Effort), Khanti (Patience), Sacca (Truthfulness), Adhitthānā (Determination), Metta (Loving-kindness) and Upakkhā (Equanimity).

As a teacher by example, the Buddha radiated his infinite compassion towards all suffering living beings to lead their deluded minds to enlightenment. The Buddha has shown that the holy ones, regardless of religious persuasion, could only be found within the Eightfold Path; and not outside it. With mind as the forerunner of the world, the Buddha had demonstrated by His own human effort that the holy life could be lived independent of any divine inspiration.

As an embodiment of all that is virtuous, the Buddha is an embodiment of perfection for every human being to emulate. Devotees could benefit greatly when they recall the Buddha to their mind. When the mind is concentrated on the virtues of the Buddha, all mental disturbances such as worry, anxiety and fear of death would disappear.
Buddhānussati

1. Buddhānussati mettā ca
   Asubham maranassati
   Iti imā caturārakhā
   Bhikkhu bhāveyya silavā

   A virtuous disciple should practise the following four-fold protective contemplation, namely reflection on the Buddha, reflection on compassion, reflection on the loathsome nature of everything and reflection on the nature of death.

2. Ananta vitthāra gunam
   Gunato nussaram munim
   Bhāveyya Buddhimā bhikkhu
   Buddhānussati mādito

   An understanding disciple should contemplate on the Buddha’s infinite and pervasive virtues.

3. Savāsane kileseso
   Ėko sabbe nighātiya
   Ahusu suddha santāno
   Pujānam ca sadāraho
...that the Buddha alone has destroyed all defilements, revealing an extremely pure mind always deserving adoration.

4. Sabbakāla gate Dhamme
   Sabbe sammā sayam muni
   Sabbākārena bujjhitvā
   Ēko sabbaññutam gato

   ...that the Buddha has rightly realised in all their aspects matters relating to all times and has attained supreme Enlightenment entirely through His own efforts.

5. Vipassanādi vijjāhi
   Silādi caranehi ca
   Susamiddhehi sampanno
   Gaganābhehi nāyako

   ...that the Leader (The Buddha) is endowed with the (Eight-Fold) knowledge such as Vipassana, (as extensive as the sky) and the Caranas such as Sila.

6. Sammā gato subbhan thānam
   Amogha vacano ca so
   Tividhassāpi lokassa
   Ñātā nirava sesato
...that the Buddha has rightly gone to the blissful state. He is endowed with fruitful speech, He has known the three worlds (sensual, fine material and formless) in their entirety.

7.  Anēkēhi gunoghēhi
    Sattra sattuttamo ahu Anēkēhi upāyehi
    naradamme damesi ca

...that the Buddha has become Supreme among all beings by His manifold qualities. He has by various means subdued those who should be subdued.

8.  Ēko sabbassa lokassa
    Sattra sattānu sāsako
    Bhāggya issariyādīnam
    Gunānam paramo nidhi

...that the Buddha is a great Teacher to the entire world. He is a noble treasure of qualities such as fortune and prosperity.

9.  Paññāssa sabbha dhammēsu
    karunā sabbha jantusu Attatthānam paratthānam
    sādhikā guna jetthikā
...that the Buddha’s wisdom is all pervasive and His compassion extends to all beings. He is a benefactor unto Himself and others. He is supreme in all qualities.

10. Dayāya pārami citvā
Paññāyattāna muddhari
Uddhari sabba dhamme ca
Dayāyaññe ca uddhari

...that the Buddha elevated Himself by the wisdom gained through the perfections by preaching the Doctrine in all its aspects; and elevated others through His compassion.

11. Dissamānopi tāvassa
Rupakāyo acintiyo
Aśādhārana ūnaddhe
Dhamma kāye kathāvakāti

It is impossible to visualise the Buddha even in His Rupakaya (physical form). How much more inconceivable is His Dharmakaya (doctrinal body) of unique wisdom?
Mettānussati
Meditation on Loving-kindness
True peace in the world can only come about when every individual’s mind is at peace. A mind vibrant with thoughts of loving-kindness is the safest guarantee for all beings to live happily and unharmed.

Metta (loving-kindness) can be used as an object of meditation. This beautiful mental state protects one against ill-will, anger and other unwholesome mental tendencies.

As an attitude of mind, metta seeks to promote happiness and radiates benevolence towards all without discrimination – humans, non-humans, known and unknown, visible and invisible. With steady perseverance in the meditation on Metta, a point will be reached when it would not be possible to harbour any thought of ill-will in the mind.

In the cultivation of loving-kindness, one begins with oneself – the nearest object in any situation. This should not be confused with self-love that is unmindful of the flaws and deficiencies in one’s own character. It is a psychological truth that a mind which is poisoned at the source cannot radiate wholesome thoughts of love towards others.

Before starting to meditate on Metta, it is good to recollect the benefits of loving-kindness and the danger of anger. Then, begin by arousing loving-kindness by repeating the following lines in the mind:

May I be free from harm and danger,
May I be free from mental suffering,
May I be free from physical suffering,
May I be well and happy.

Keep repeating these words until they sink into the mind which gradually becomes concentrated, happy and peaceful.

Next, we extend to others the same happiness that we had wished for ourselves. For a start, choose a person to whom we have good feelings. He or she could be a parent, teacher, relative or friend, but must be one of the same sex and is still living. Think of his or her good qualities as we radiate:

May he/she be free from harm and danger.
May he/she be free from mental suffering.
May he/she be free from physical suffering.
May he/she be well and happy.

For a beginner, it is best not to choose four types of persons: one who is very intimate, one who is dead, one of the opposite sex, and one who is an enemy. After one’s loving-kindness and concentration become powerful through consistent practice, one may proceed to radiate Metta to others in the following order: a very dear friend, a neutral person, an unpleasant person, and an enemy. One can also radiate metta to all types of beings and in all directions.

Loving-kindness is universal and all-embracing. It has no religious or racial barriers. Therefore, Buddhists and non-Buddhists alike can practise loving-kindness and experience good results.

According to the Buddha, the following immediate good results will come about for one who practises this meditation regularly:

1. Sleeps peacefully
2. Awakes peacefully
3. Disturbing dreams do not occur
4. Pleasing to other humans
5. Free from the disturbances of evil spirits
6. Protected by Devas
7. Not affected by misfortune from fire, poison and weapons
8. Gain concentration quickly
9. Pleasant in appearance
10. Dies with a mind free from confusion
11. If the stage of sainthood is not reached during this lifetime, one will be born in a Brahma world.
Mettānussati

1. Attupamāya sabbesam sattānam sukha kāmatam
   Passitvā kamato mettam
   sabbā sattesu bhāvaye

   Having compared oneself with others, one should practise loving-kindness towards all beings by realising that everyone desires happiness.

2. Sukhi bhaveyyam niddukkho
   Aham niccam aham viya
   Hitā ca me sukhi hontu
   Majjhattā tha ca verino

   May I be free from sorrow and always be happy.
   May those who desire my welfare, those who are indifferent towards me and those who hate me, also be happy.

3. Imamhi gāmakkhattamhi
   Sattā hontu sukhi sadā
   Tato param ca rajjesu
   Cakkavālesu jantuno
May all beings who live in this vicinity and those who live in other kingdoms in this world-system be happy.

4. Samantā cakka vālesu
   Sattānam tesu pānino
   Sukhino puggalā bhutā
   Atta bhāva gatā siyum

May all beings living in every world-system and each element of life within such a system be happy and achieve the highest bliss.

5. Tathā itthi pumā ceva
   Ariyā anariyā pi ca
   Devā narā apāyatthā
   Tathā dasa disāsu cāti

Likewise, women, men, the noble and the ignoble ones, gods, men and those in woeful states and those living in the ten directions – may all these beings be happy.
Maranānussati
Meditation on Death
Maranānussati

1. Pavāta dīpa tullyāya
   Sāyu santati yākophysicalam
   Parūpamāya sampassam
   Bhāvaye maranassatim

   Seeing with wisdom the end of life in others and comparing this to a lamp kept in a windy place, one should meditate on Death.

2. Mahā sampatti sampattā
   Yathā sattā matā idha
   Tathā aham marissāmi
   Maranam mama hessati

   Just as in this world beings who once enjoyed great prosperity will die, even so one day will I die too. Death will indeed come to me.

3. Uppattiyā sahevedam
   Maranam āgatam sadā
   Māranatthāya okāsam
   Vadhako viya esati

   This Death has come along with birth. Therefore, like an executioner, Death always seeks an opportunity to destroy.
4. Īsakam anivattam tam
Satatam gamanussukam
Jeevitam udaya attham
Suriyo viya dhāvati

Life, without halting for a moment, and ever keen on moving, runs like the sun that hastens to set after its rise.

5. Vijju bubbula ussāva
Jalarāji Parikkhayam
Ghātakova ripū tassa
Sabbatthāpi avāriyo

This life comes to an end like a streak of lightning, a bubble of water, a dew-drop on a leaf, or a line drawn on water. Like an enemy intent on killing. Death can never be avoided.

6. Suyasatthāma puññiddhi
Buddhi vuddhe jinaddyayam
Ghātesi maranam khippam
Kātu mādisake kathā

If death could come in an instant to the Buddhas endowed with great glory, prowess, merits, supernormal powers and wisdom, what could be said of me?
7. Paccayānam ca vekallyā
Bāhirajjhattu paddavā
Marāmoram nimesāpi
Maramāno anukkhananti

Dying every instant, I shall die within the twinkling of an eye, for want of food, and through internal ailments or through external injuries.
Asubhānussati
Meditation on the Loathsomeness of the Body
Asubhānussati

1. Aviññānaṁ subhanibham
Saviññānaṁ subham imam
Kāyam asubhato passam
Asubham bhāvaye yati

On perceiving this body as an unsatisfactory conscious and non-conscious entity, one should meditate on its unsatisfactoriness.

2. Vanna santhāna gandhehi
Āsayo kāsato tathā
Patikkulāni kāye me
Kunapāni dvi sūlasa

The thirty-two impurities of one's body are disgusting in respect of colour, form, associable elements and space.

3. Patitamhāpi kunapā
Jeguccham kāya nissitam
Adharo hi sucī tassa
Kāyotu kunape thitam

The impurities that are within the body are more disgusting than those that fall from it, since impurities fallen from the body continue not to contaminate the body which rests itself on impurities.

4. Milhe kimiva kāyoyam
    Asucimhi samutthito
    Anto asuci sampunno
    Punna vacca kuti viya

Like a worm born in filth, this body is also born in filth. Like a cesspit that is full, this body is full of filth.

5. Asuci sandate niccam
    Yathā medaka thālikā
    Nānā kimi kulāvāso
    Pakka candanikā viya

Just as fat pours itself out from a pot full, even so impure matter flows out from this body. Like a cesspit, this body is host to millions of worms.

6. Ganda bhuto roga bhuto
    Vana bhuto samussayo
    Atekicchoṭi Jeguccho
    Pabhinna kunapupamoti

This body is like a boil, a disease, a wound that is incurable. It is extremely repulsive. It is comparable to a decomposed corpse.
The Buddha ministers to the sick and preaches thereon.
Salla Sutta
The Shaft of Grief
Salla Sutta

1. Animitta manaññātam maccānam idha jīvitam Kasiram ca parittam ca Tam ca dukkhena sanyutam

   The life of mortals in this world, brief and beset by woes, can neither be calculated nor gauged.

2. Nahi so upakkamo atthi Yena jātā na miyare Jarampi patvā maranam Evam dhammāhi pānino

   There is no device by which one who is born, can escape death. Having attained old age, death is inevitable.

3. Phalānamiva pakkānam Pāto Patanato bhayam Evam jātāna maccānam Niccam maranato bhayam

   Just as fruits having ripened must fall, even so mortals who are born must always have the fear of death.
4. Yathāpi kumbhakārassa
   Kata mattika bhājana
   Sabbe bhedana pariyanto
   Evam maccāna jīvitam

   Just as earthen-ware vessels a potter makes are destined to break, even so the life of mortals is destined to fall apart.

5. Dharā ca mahantā ca
   Ye bālā ye ca panditā
   Sabbe maccu vasam yanti
   Sabbe maccu parāyanā

   Grown-ups and the young, the wise and the foolish – all these come under the spectre of death.

6. Tesam maccu paretānam
   Gacchatam paralokato
   Napitā tāyate puttam
   Ōṭivā pana ōṭake

   No father can save his son, no relative can save his relatives, when they are going to depart from this world.

7. Pekkhatam yeva ṇātinam
   Passalāla patam puthu

Ekamekova maccānam
Govajjho viya niyati.

While relatives stand watching and lamenting, see how beings are led to death, like cattle to a slaughter house.

8. Evamabhāhato loko
Maccunā ca jarāya ca
Tasmā dhirā na socanti
Viditvā loka pariyāyam

Since beings are thus assailed by death and old age, the wise, knowing the nature of this world, do not grieve.

9. Yassa maggam na jānāsi
Āgatassa gatassa vā
Ubho ante asampassam
Nirattham paridevasi

It is in vain that you lament over the dead, since you do not know whence they came nor whither they go.

10. Paridevaya māno ce
Kincidattham udābahe
Sammūlho hinsa matthānam
Kayirā cetam vicakkhano

If wailing will heal the mourner’s shafts of sorrow, only then let the wise wail.

11. Nahi runnena sokena
Santim pappoti cetaso
Bhiyassu-ppajjate dukkham
Sarīram-cupa haññāti

Peace of mind is not attained by wailing. It only brings grief and hurt to the body.

12. Kiso vivanno bhavati
Hinsa mattāna mattanā
Na tena petā pālenti
Nirattha paridevanā

Mourning only makes the mourner emaciated and pale. It does not help the departed. Therefore, mourning is meaningless.

13. Soka mappa jahamjantum
Bhiyo dukkham nigacchati
Anutthunanto kālakatam
Sokassa vasa manvagu
By not forsaking sorrow, he proceeds to greater pain. He only goes deeper into the realm of sorrow.

14. Aññepi passa gāmino
Yathā kammupage nare
Maccuno vasa māgamma
phandante vidha pānino

Observe how others born into this world according to their Kamma, must tremble under the spectre of death.

15. Yena yenahi maññanti
Tato tam hoti aññathā
Etādiso vinā bhāvo
Passa lokassa pariyāyam

In whichever manner people think of things, things turn out to be otherwise. Such is the opposite nature of things. Observe thus the nature of the world.

16. Api ce vassa satam jīve
Bhiyo vā pana mānavo
Ñāti sanghā vinā hoti
Jahati idha jīvitam
Even if a man were to live a hundred years or more, he must still yield his life, at last bereft of friends and relatives.

17. Tasmā arahato sutvā
    Vineyya paridevitam
    Petam kālakatam disvā
    Naso labbhā mayā iti

Therefore, listening to the wise and the holy and seeing a person departed, control your weeping. Reflect on the departure of your beloved ones by thinking that separation is natural.

18. Yathā saranamādittan
    Varinā Parinibbuto
    Evampi dhiro sappañño
    Pandito kusalo naro
    Khippamuppatitam Sokam
    Vāto thūlam va dhansaye

Just as one would douse a burning house with water, even so let a steadfast and wise man remove grief, as quickly as the wind of (a handful of) cotton.
19. Paridevan pajappañ ca
   Domanassañ ca attano
   Attano sukha mesāno
   Abbāhe salla mattano

Let a person, desirous of his own welfare, pluck out the shafts of wails and grief, he himself planted.

20. Abbūlha sallo asito
   Santin pappuyya cetaso
   Sabba sokam atikkanto
   Asoko hoti nibbuto

Having plucked out these shafts and having attained mental peace, he becomes blessed and free from grief, overcoming all sorrows.

Khuddaka Nikaya, Sutta Nipata
Tirokudda Sutta
Departed Ones in Spirit Form
Recital to Transfer Merits to Departed Ones
Tirokudda Sutta

1. Tirokuddesu titthanti sandhi sanghātakesu ca Dvārabāhāsu titthanti
   āgantvāna sakam aharam

Those who reborn as unfortunate spirits (because of selfish craving for their property in a past life), return to their homes and create an eerie atmosphere while lingering beyond the doors.

2. Pahūte annapānamhi khajjabhojje upatthite
   Na tesam koci sarati sattānam kammapaccayā

They yearn for human food, but because of their past kamma, their living relatives neglect to make offerings to them.

3. Evam dadanti ńatinam ye honti anukampakā Sucim panitam kālena
kappiyam pānabhojanam
Idam vo ānatinam hotu sukītā hontu ātayo

Those who are compassionate, therefore, should remember their departed relatives and make offerings (such as almsgiving) in their name.
By the whole-hearted transference of merits, the spirits will gratefully wish for the well-being of their living relatives who perform the meritorious deed.

4. Te ca tattha samāgantvā ānatin ānagatā
Pahūte annapānamhi
sakkaccam anumodare

They should remember the spirits of their departed relatives who are not at peace with themselves and gathered in many places.

5. Chiram Jivantu no ānati yesam hetu labhāmase Amhākam ca katā pujā dāyakā ca anipphalā
In return, such spirits
thus remembered and satisfied, will eagerly wish for the well-being of their living relatives out of gratitude.

6. *Na hi tattha kasi atthi gorakh’etha na vijjati Vanijjā tādisi, natthi hirañēna kayākhayam
Ito dinnena yāpenti
petā kālakatā tahim*

For there is never ploughing here, nor any cattle herding found.’
‘Nor merchandizing just the same, nor bartering for coins of gold.
The spirits of the departed kin live there on the merits transferred to them.’

7. *Unname udakam vattam
yathā ninnam pavattati
Evameva ito dinnam
petānam upakappati*

As water showered on the hill, flows down to reach the hollow vale,
So the merits transferred can serve,
the spirits of the departed kin.
8. Yathā vārivahā purā paripureṇti sāgaram
   Evameva ito dinnam
   petānam upakappati

   As river-beds when full can bear the water down to fill the sea,
   So the merits transferred can serve,
   The spirits of the departed kin.

9. Adāsi me, akāsi me ēnatimittā sakhā ca me
   Petānam dakkhinam dajjā
   pubbe kata manussaram

   'He gave to me, he worked for me,
   He was my kin, friend, intimate.'
   'Give gifts, then, for departed ones,
   Recalling what they used to do.'

10. Na hi runnam va soko vā yā c’aññā paridevanā Na tā petāna Matthāya
    evam titthanti ētātayo

   No weeping, nor yet sorrowing,
   Nor any kind of mourning, helps
   Departed Ones, whose kin remain
   Acting thus, unhelpful to them.
11. Ayan ca kho dakkhinā dinnā dsanghamhi supatitthitā Dīgharattam hitāyassa thānaso upakappati

But when this offering is given
To those members of the Holy Order,
Then it can serve them long
In future and at once as well.

12. So āti dhammo ca ayam nidassito
Petāna pujā ca katā ulārā
Balan ca bhikkhūna – manuppadinnam
Tumhehi puññam pasutam anappakam

(By offering alms to the Holy Order in memory of the departed)
The true path of action for relatives has thus been shown, and how high honour to departed ones is done, and how the Holy Order can be given sustenance as well, and how great merit
can be stored away by you.

Tilakkhana

1. Sabbe sankhārā aniccāti
   Yadā paññāya passati
   Atha nibbindati dukkhe
   Esamaggo visuddhiyā

   When one sees with wisdom that all component things are transient, he overcomes misery. This is the path to purity.

2. Sabbe sankhārā dukkhāti
   Yadā paññāya passati
   Atha nibbindati dukkhe
   Esamaggo visuddhiyā

   When one sees with wisdom that all component things are sorrowful, he overcomes misery. This is the path to purity.

3. Sabbe dhammā anattāti
   Yadā paññāya passati
   Atha nibbindati dukkhe
   Esamaggo visuddhiyā

   When one sees with wisdom that all Dhammas are soulless, he overcomes misery. This is the path to purity.

   ... all these have to be left behind when going beyond. But whatever one does through deed, word or thought...

3. Tanhi tassa sakan hoti
   tanca ādāya gacchati Tancassa anugan hoti chāyāva anapāyini

   ... that alone belongs to him, that alone he takes with him and that alone follows him like his shadow.
4. Sabbe sattā marissanti maranantan hi jīvitam
   Yathā kamman gamīssanti puñña pāpa phalupagā
   Nirayan pāpakammantā puñnakammā ca suggatin

All living beings die. Life ends in death. Beings fare according to their deeds, reaping the harvest of their deeds; meritorious or otherwise. Those who commit demeritorious deeds go to woeful states and those who do meritorious deeds attain blissful states.

5. Tasmā kareyya kalyānan nicayan samparāyikan Puññāni paralokasmin patitthā honti pāninanti

Therefore, let one always do good deeds for life’s future store elsewhere. Meritorious deeds sustain life’s own future.
Go forth ye Phikkins, for the welfare of the many.
Jivitam Aniyatam
Maranam Niyatam
Life is Uncertain, Death is Certain Impermanency of Life
Recital for during funerals
Buddhists must be realistic about death. They should accept it calmly and use this occasion to radiate compassionate thoughts towards the departed ones.

The following verses can be recited to protect the family members from fear on such an occasion. Other verses can be recited to transfer merits to bring relief to the spirits of the departed ones.

The suttas and recitals included in this section are traditionally used in Buddhist countries to overcome feelings of insecurity and to offer consolation to those in mourning. It also gives them an opportunity to reflect on the nature of life and death.
Jīvitam Aniyatam, Maranam Niyatam

1. Aniccāvata sankhārā
   Uppāda vaya Dhammino
   Uppajjitvā nirujjhanti
   Tesanvūpa samo sukho

   All component things are indeed transient. They are of the nature of arising and decaying. Having come into being, they cease to be. The cessation of this process is bliss.

2. Aciran vata ayan kāyo
   Pathavim adhi sessati
   Chuddho apeta viññāno
   Niratthamva kalingaram

   Before long this body will lie on the earth, abandoned and devoid of consciousness, useless as a log.

3. Anabbhito tato āga
   Ananuññāto ito gato
   Yathā’ gato tathāgato
   Kā tattha paridevanā

   Uninvited he has come hither; he has departed hence without approval. Even as he came, just so he went. What lamentation then could there be?

4. Puttā matthi dhanam – atthi
   Iti bālo vihaṅñati
   Attāhi attano natthi
   Kuto puttā kuto dhanan

   The narrow-minded person torments himself with the thought:— ‘I have sons, I have wealth.’ When he himself is not his own, whence can there be sons or wealth?

Recolleciton of Eight Sorrowful Stages of Life
Attha Mahā Sanvega Vatthu

1. Bhāvetvā caturārakkhā Āvajjeyya anantaram Mahā sanvega vatthūni Attha atthita viriyō

Having practised this four-fold protective meditation, one who has put forth effort should reflect on the eight-fold sorrowful stages (of life).

2. Jāti jarā vyādhi cuti apāyā Atīta appattaka vatta dukkham Idāni āhāra gavetthi dukkham Sanvega vatthūni imāni attha

The sorrows pertaining to birth, old age, disease, death, Peta Loka, (spirit world) past cycle of births, future cycle of births, and the sorrow experienced in search of sustenance in the present life – these are the eight sorrowful stages (of life).

3. Pāto ca sāya mapi ceva imam vidhiṁīnu Āsevate satata matta hitābhilāsi Pappoti soti vipulam hata pāri pantho Settham sukham munivisitttha matam sukhena cāti

A person, who, desirous of his own welfare and knowing the types of meditation, practises this meditation regularly morning and evening, will destroy the impediments, and happily attain the supreme state of Nirvana, the Buddha extolled as the highest bliss.
The Buddha advised two kingdoms not to declare war for the sake of water of Rohini River.
Puṇṇānumodanā
Sharing of Merits with Others
The Buddha encouraged His followers to think of others whenever they do some meritorious deeds. Devotees recite these verses to share with others the merits they have accrued. By sharing those merits, others would be benefited and appeased.

This act of sharing will encourage others to do likewise. Indeed, it is an expression of gratitude to their loved ones. In addition, it is an aspiration for spiritual strength to overcome evil influences so as to continue doing meritorious deeds.
Puññanumodanā

1. Iminā puñña kammena
   Upajjhāyā gunuttarā
   Ācari yupa kārāca
   Mātā pitā piyā mamam

   May my virtuous Teachers, helpful Guardians,
   my dear Mother and Father, share the merits accrued by this meritorious deed.

2. Suriyo candimā rājā
   Guna vantā narāpica
   Brahmā mārāca indāca
   Loka pālāca devatā

   Suriya and Candima Kings
   (the Devas of Sun and Moon), all virtuous humans,
   Brahmas, Devas, Maras and Indras (Tavatimsa Devas)
   the world protecting Devas, share these merits.
3. Yamo mittā manussāca
Majjhattā verikāpica
Sabbe sattā sukhi hontu
Puññāni pakatānime

Yama (Devas of the under-world), humans, friends, indifferent ones, enemies too,
may all beings be happy,
sharing my merits.

4. Sukhanca tividhan dentu
Khippam pāpetha vo matam
Iminā puñña kammena
Iminā uddhisenaca

May the triple happiness be attained,
(now, after death and finally Nibbana) soon, may all gain release from evil, by this meritorious deed and through this sharing.

5. Khippāham sulabhe ceva
Tanhūpādāna chedanam
Ye santānehinā dhammā
Yāvā nibbānato mamam

Soon indeed, may I attain to the good, to cutting off craving’s attachments and all that is low in this flux of being, while striving for my deliverance.
6. Nassantu sabbadā yeva
   Yattha jāto bhave bhave
   Uju citto sati pañño
   Sallekho viriya vāminā

   May such evils everywhere be destroyed, as one reappears, existence after existence,
may there be the upright mind, thoughtful wisdom, purity and energy.

7. Mārā labhantu nokāsam
   Kātunca viryeysume
   Buddhādi pavaro nātho
   Dhammo nātho varuttamo

   May evils (personified as Maras) never approach me, through the power of my action and energy, through such power as the Buddha’s Dhamma* lofty supreme.

8. Nātho pacceka sambuddho
   Sangho nāthot-taro mamam
   Tesottamānu bhāvena
   Māro-kāsam labhantu mā

---

* Here the Dhamma means the Buddha’s teaching.
The Lordly-lone Buddhas, any of highest Lords of the Ariya Sangha, even unto my final birth.
May evils never approach me.
Narasīha Gāthā
Lion of Men

Princess Yasodhara’s pointing out of the Unique Physical Characteristics of The Buddha to her son, Rahula who met Him for the first time
Princess Yasodhara (consort of Prince Siddhartha) uttered the following verses to her son, Rahula, when he was introduced to the Lord Buddha on His first visit to Kapilavatthu (His home town) after His Enlightenment. Prince Siddhartha left Kapilavatthu after His Great Renunciation on the same day His son Rahula was born and hence had not seen His son since. It was on His first visit to Kapilavatthu after His Enlightenment that He met His son again, after a lapse of 7 years. These verses which explain some of the physical characteristics and noble virtues of the Blessed One are sung as Buddhist hymns in many Buddhist countries.

1. Cakka Varankita Ratta Supādo
   Lakkhana Mandita Āyata Panhi
   Cāmara Chatta Vibhusita Pādo
   Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho

   His red sacred feet are marked with an excellent wheel; His long heels are decked with characteristic marks; His feet are adorned with a chowrie (camara) and parasol. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

2. Sakya Kumāravaro Sukhumālo
   Lakkhana Vitthata Punna Sariro
   Loka Hitāya Gato Naraviro
   Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasīho

   He is a delicate and noble Sakya Prince; His body is full of characteristic marks; He is a hero amongst men, intent on the welfare of the world. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

3. Punna Sasanka Nibho Mukha Vanno
   Deva Narāna Piyo Naranāgo
   Matta Gajinda Vilāsita Gāmi
   Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho
Like the full moon is His face; He is dear to gods and men; He is like an elephant amongst men; His gait is graceful as that of an elephant of noble breed. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

4. Khattiya Sambhava Agga Kulīno
   Deva Manussa Namassita Pādo
   Sīla Samādhi Patītthita Citto
   Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho

He is of noble lineage, sprung from the warrior caste; His feet have been honoured by gods and men; His mind is well established in morality and concentration. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

5. Āyata Tunga Susanthita Nāso
   Gopamukho Abhinīla Sunetto
   Indadhanu Abhinīla Bhamūkho
   Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho

Long and prominent is His well-formed nose, His eye-lashes are like those of a heifer; His eyes are extremely blue; like a rainbow are His blue-black eyebrows. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

6. Vatta Sumatta Susanthita Gīvo
   Sīhahanu Migarāja Sariro
Kancana Succhavi Uttama Vanno
Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho

Round and smooth is His well-formed neck; His jaw is like that of a lion; His body is like that of the king of beasts; His beautiful skin is of bright golden colour. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

7. Suniddha Sugambhira Manjusu Ghoso Hingula Bandhu Suratta Sujivho Visati Visati Seta Sudanto Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho

Soft and deep is His sweet voice; His tongue is as red as vermillion; His white teeth are twenty in each row. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.

8. Anjana Vanna Sunīla Sukeso Kancana Patta Visuddha Lalāto Osadhi Pandara Suddhasu Unno Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasīho

Like the colour of collyrium is His blue-black hair; like a polished golden plate is His forehead; as white as the morning star is His beautiful tuft of hair (between the eyebrows). That, indeed is your father, lion of men.
9. Gacchati Nīlapathe Viya Cando
* Tāraganā Parivethita Rūpo
* Sāvaka Majjhagato Samanindo
* Esa Hi Tuyha Pitā Narasiho

Just as the moon, surrounded by a multitude of stars, follows the sky path, even so goes The Lord of monks, accompanied by His disciples. That, indeed is your father, lion of men.
Saranatta-Mupemi
Verses for Taking Refuge in the Triple Gem
Recital at the end of religious functions
These verses can be recited before or after the commencement of any Buddhist meeting or religious class and sung as a Buddhist ‘anthem’. When a whole crowd of people recite these hymns tunefully with musical accompaniment, it imparts a great inspiration to the listeners.

Saranatta-Mupemi

1. Yo vadatam pavaro manujjesu
   Sakyamuni bhagavā kata kiccō
   Pāra gatō bala viriya samangi
   Tam sugatam saranattha mupemi

   Who is the supreme speaker amongst mankind, Sakya Sage, O Holy One, Whose task is done. Gone beyond (this round of rebirths) possessed of power and energy. To Thee, the Welcome One, I go for refuge!

2. Rāga virāga maneja-masokan
   Dhamma-masamkhata mappati kūlam
   Madhura mimam pagunam suvibhattam
   Dhamma-mimam saranattha mupemi
Exempt from lust, from craving, sorrow-free.
Law unconditioned and delectable, sweet, potent, profoundly analytical.
To this very Dhamma I go for refuge!

3. \textit{Yattha ca dinna mahapphala-māhu}
\textit{Catusu sucīsu purisa yugesu}
\textit{Attha ca puggala dhamma dasāte}
\textit{Sangha-mimam saranattha mupemi}

Whate'er is given bears fruit 'tis said,
There are four Pure Pairs of Persons and these Eight, are people who have realised the truth.
To this very Sangha I go to refuge.

The Four Noble Truths

Dukkha:
Suffering or unsatisfactoriness.
Realisation of the unsatisfactoriness of existence.

Dukkha Samudaya:
The cause of suffering.
Realisation of the cause of this unsatisfactoriness (Craving).

Nirodha:
Cessation of suffering.
Experience complete liberation from unsatisfactoriness (Nibbāna).

Magga:
Path leading to the cessation of suffering.
The method to be practised (The Noble Eightfold Path) in order to gain liberation from unsatisfactoriness.
Kusinara Shrine,
where the Buddha attained Maha Parinibbana (Passing Away).
Paticca Samuppāda
Law of Dependant Origination

Avijjā : Through ignorance are conditioned volitional actions of Kamma formation.
Sankhārā : Through volitional actions are conditioned consciousness.
Viññāna : Through consciousness are conditioned mental and physical phenomena.
Nāma Rūpa : Through mental and physical phenomena are conditioned the six faculties ie. five physical sense – organs and mind.
Salāyatana : Through the six faculties are conditioned sensorial and mental contact.
Phassa : Through sensorial and mental contact is conditioned sensation.
Vedanā : Through sensation is conditioned desire.
Tanha : Through desire is conditioned clinging.
Upādāna : Through clinging is conditioned the process of becoming.
Bhava : Through the process of becoming is conditioned birth.

Jāthi Jarā Marana Soka Parideva Dukkha
Domanassa Upāyāsa:
Through birth are conditioned decay, death, sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief and despair.
With bad advisors forever left behind,
From paths of evil he departs for eternity,
Soon to see the Buddha of Limitless Light
And perfect Samantabhadra's Supreme Vows.

The supreme and endless blessings of Samantabhadra's deeds,
I now universally transfer.
May every living being, drowning and adrift,
Soon return to the Pure Land of Limitless Light!

* The Vows of Samantabhadra *

I vow that when my life approaches its end,
All obstructions will be swept away;
I will see Amitabha Buddha,
And be born in His Western Pure Land of Ultimate Bliss and Peace.

When reborn in the Western Pure Land,
I will perfect and completely fulfill
Without exception these Great Vows,
To delight and benefit all beings.

* The Vows of Samantabhadra Avatamsaka Sutra *
DEDICATION OF MERIT

May the merit and virtue accrued from this work adorn Amitabha Buddha’s Pure Land, repay the four great kindnesses above, and relieve the suffering of those on the three paths below. May those who see or hear of these efforts generate Bodhi-mind, spend their lives devoted to the Buddha Dharma, and finally be reborn together in the Land of Ultimate Bliss. Homage to Amita Buddha!
